Early in the morning, Handy's halls seem a lonely and quiet place. Outside, the sun is just beginning to light up the dark sky. Janitors have already started the huge furnaces that are heating the school, in anticipation of the arrival of counselors, teachers, and students.

As 7:30 draws near, students make last minute preparations for classes.

The school year begins again and each day, long before the sun rises, Handy comes alive with the arrival of custodians; the stoking of boilers; and the flickering lights of a school awakening.

Soon the arrivals of teachers and students, in car on buses, on foot, begin . . . minds and feet wait for doors to open. St dents hang up coats, stow lunches, sort books from their lockers, then hea for classrooms where learning will begin. Teachers grab a last gulp of co fee, in hopes of waking up by the time the tardy bell rings . . .

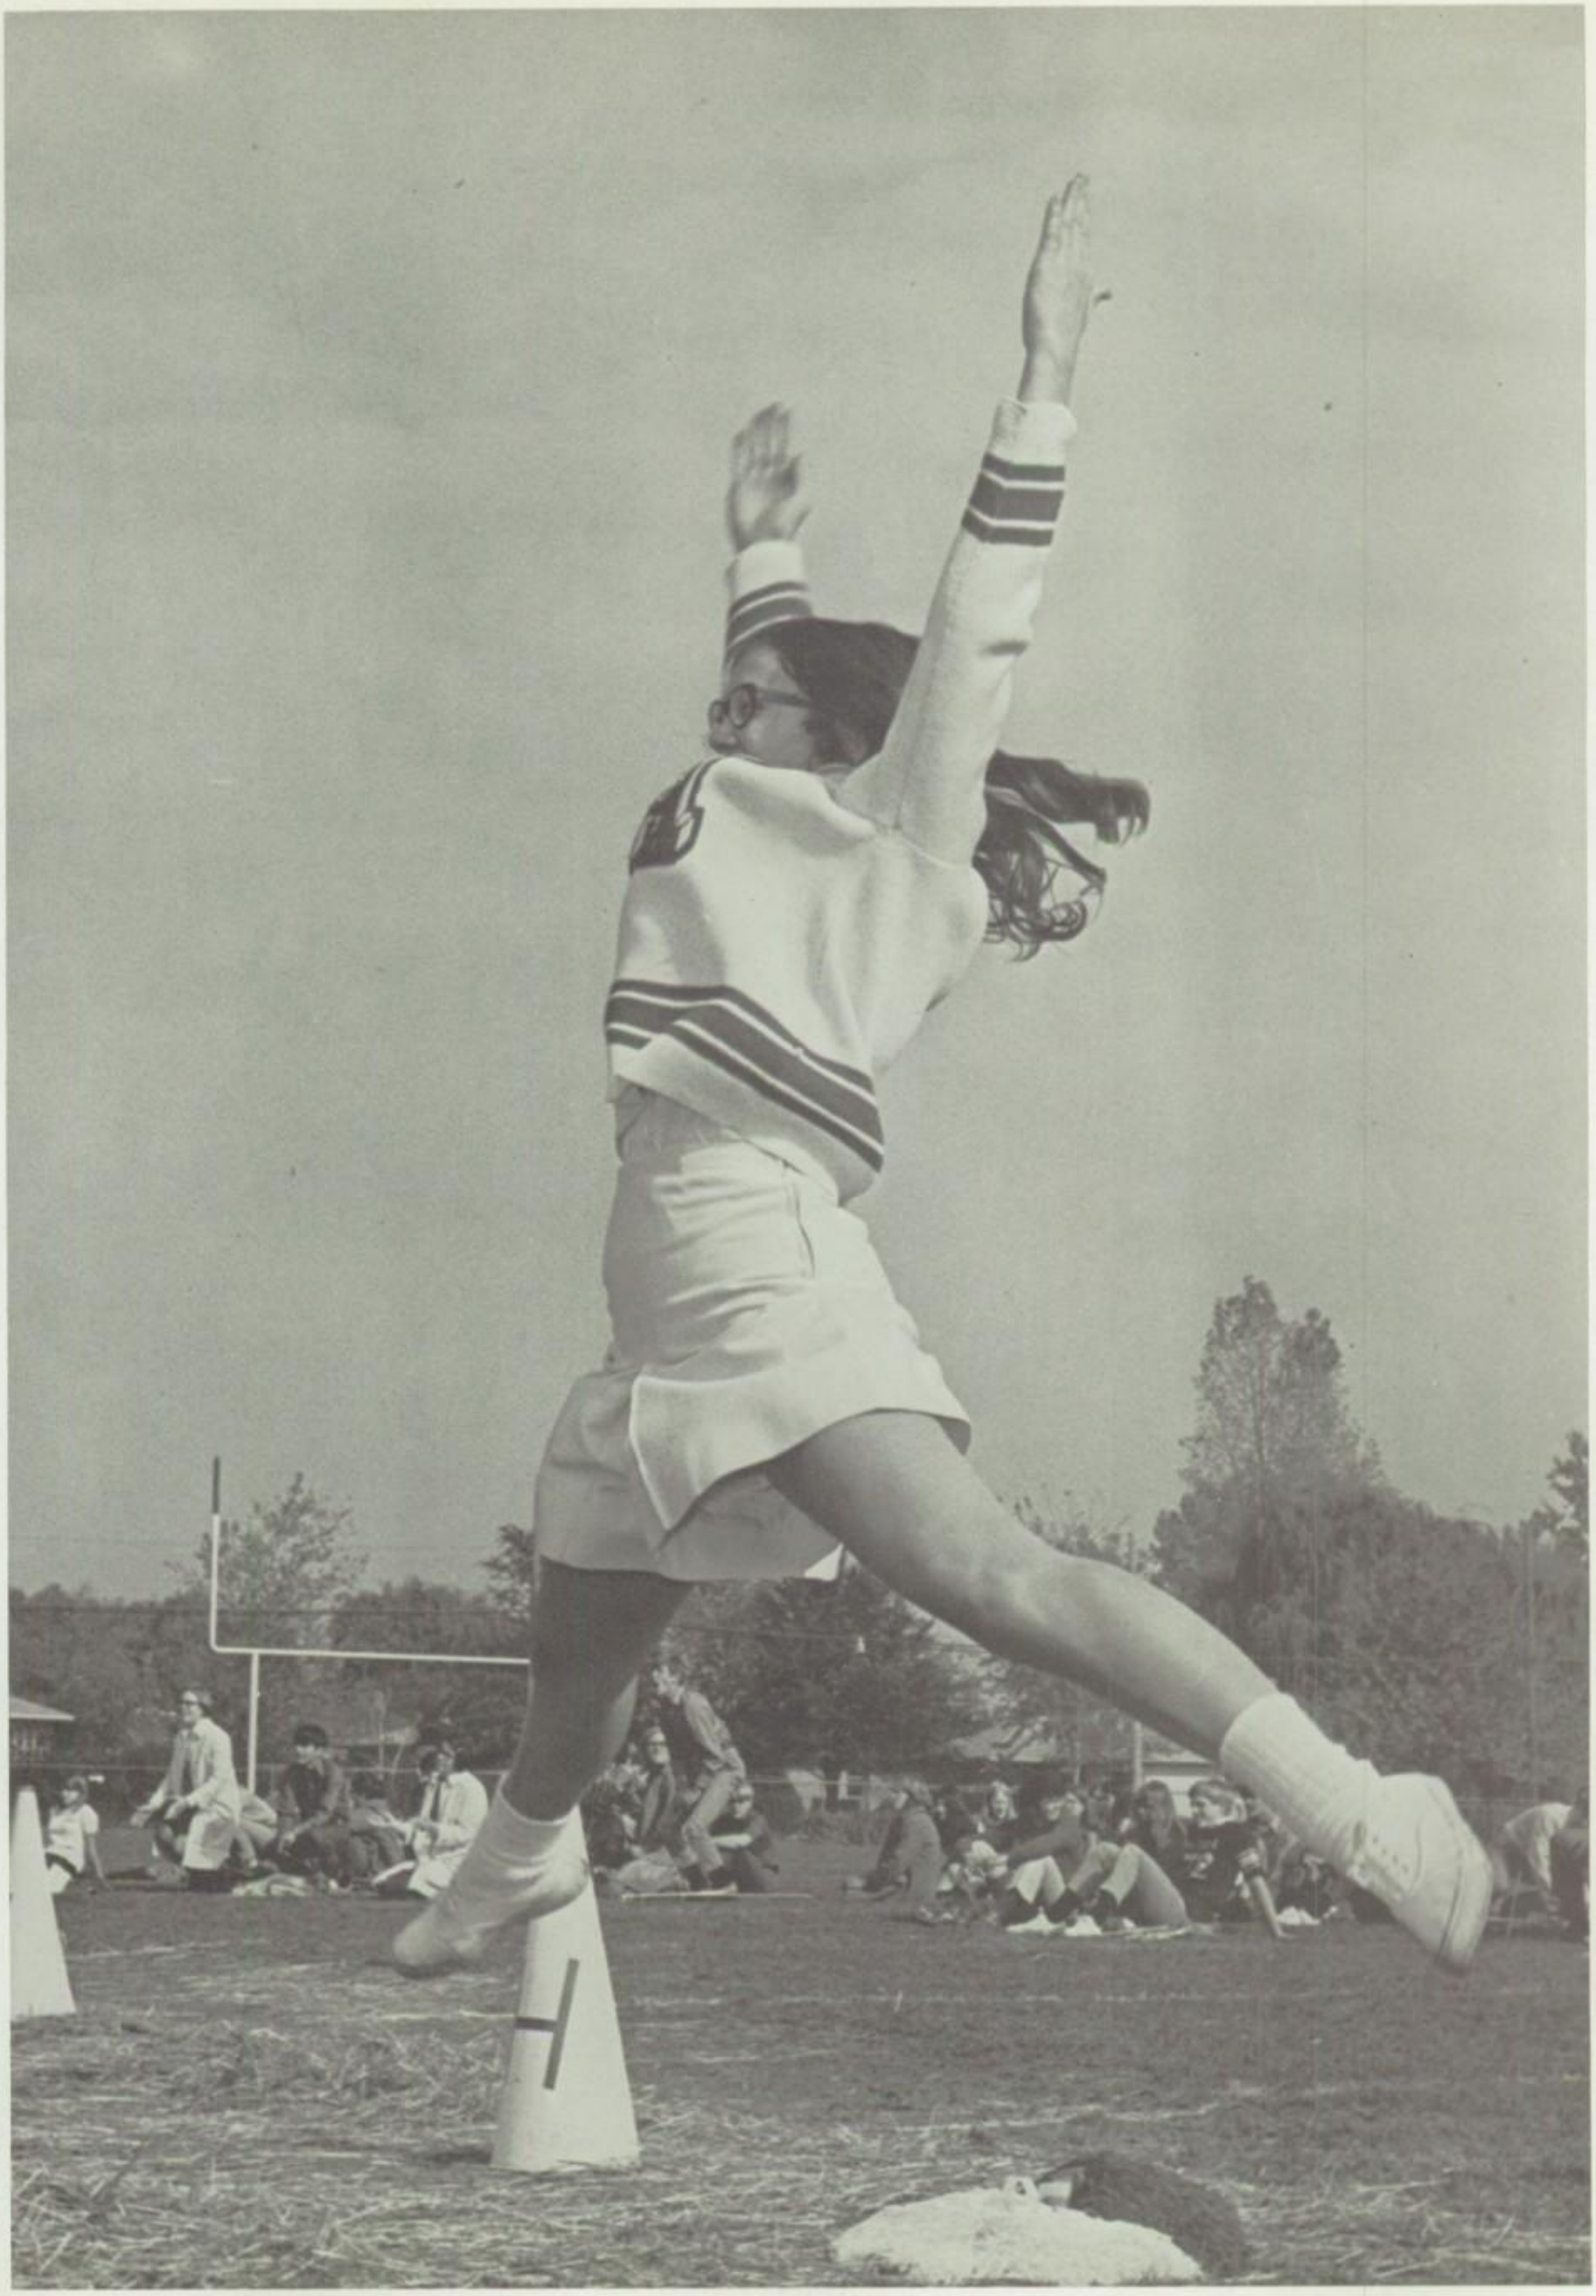
Students find clothes a way to express their individuality. Many varied styles can be seen as students head for their classes early in the morning.

Handy spirit spreads at pep assemblies, both indoor and out. Below, John Jill, Pete Gies, Mike Wolkowiak, and John Northrope, cheer a salute to the football team. Left, Marty Anderson announces the Junior class winner of the spirit jug. Below left, Linda Bork, Wendy Anderson, Chris Angers, and Cheryl Schlicker lead cheers. Opposite page, Linda Burk demonstrates a jump.



Cross Country runners arrive at a meet, tense, walking slowly, thinking about the race to come. Sweat suits come off and warm-ups begin. A two-mile run is a long way, when the sun is shining and the fall air is warm. When the weather is cold, the race seems even longer.

Students use pacers in Reading Improvement, to force their eyes to move more quickly down a page. The library provides a place for studying and reading, and also provides some Co-op students with jobs as assistant librarians.

There is often little distinction between student and teacher, for both seem to be learning from each other. Everyone takes pride in having his work displayed and in being complimented on a fine job. "Ah Wilderness," by Eugene O'Neill, was the 1970 fall play produced by an all-school cast under the direction of Mr. C. Murphy. The students participated in every aspect of production, from helping build the set to putting on their own make-up. They learned to put themselves into another's character and to use facial gestures to express the emotions of that character. The result of their work was evident when the curtain rose on the opening of "Ah Wilderness."

Watching from the sidelines can be a worse strain than being on the floor. Seeing a foul and not being able to do anything about it; watching the ball fall into the opponent's grip, when it could have been stopped; losing the rebound, or seeing the defense loosen, seems fatal from the bench. Mistakes, invisible to the player on the floor, appear as glaring errors to the player on the sideline.

Lunch hour provides a time to talk to friends, "Boy, was that English test a bummer!" and to post a pep sign for a basketball game. It is a time to relax and take a break from school; to forget about the three chapters that have to be outlined by tomorrow; and to listen to music and enjoy being with other people.

For the first time, Handy's Shakespearean play, "As You Like It," directed by Mr. C. Murphy, was televised. Excerpts from the play were filmed at Handy and broadcasted over Channel 19, NET Television. The half hour show narrator interviewed the director and three students about the play, its costuming, and their opinions of the modern style in which it was performed. Excerpts from the play were shown and explained by Mr. Murphy.

Laughter, clapping, and a standing ovation proclaimed Shakespeare a smash hit in 1971. "As You Like It" was performed in mod costumes; preceeded with hard-rock band music; scenes were interspersed with modern guitar music.

The characters in "As You Like It" were divided into three groups: the usurping king and his court were symbolized by Nazi insignia and black leather jackets, with "Hell's Angel's" printed on the backs; the exiled king and his court were costumed in clothes typical of a hippie commune; and the country folk were dressed in humorous working clothes.

Handy's runners are skilled athletes who do much more than run. High jump, low hurdles, shot putt, and relays are part of every track meet. Runners must do more than run, to score points. A high jumper must be versed in the use of a pole vault; he must be skilled in falling. As second in valley competition, Handy's team proved to be one of the best track teams in the 1970 league.

Proper positioning of feet; the correct grasp on the racquet or club; a clean golf ball, and strong gut or nylon or steel strings, in good repair, are essentials in golf and tennis competition. These preparations contribute to keep competitive spirits, when Handy students go out for spring sports.

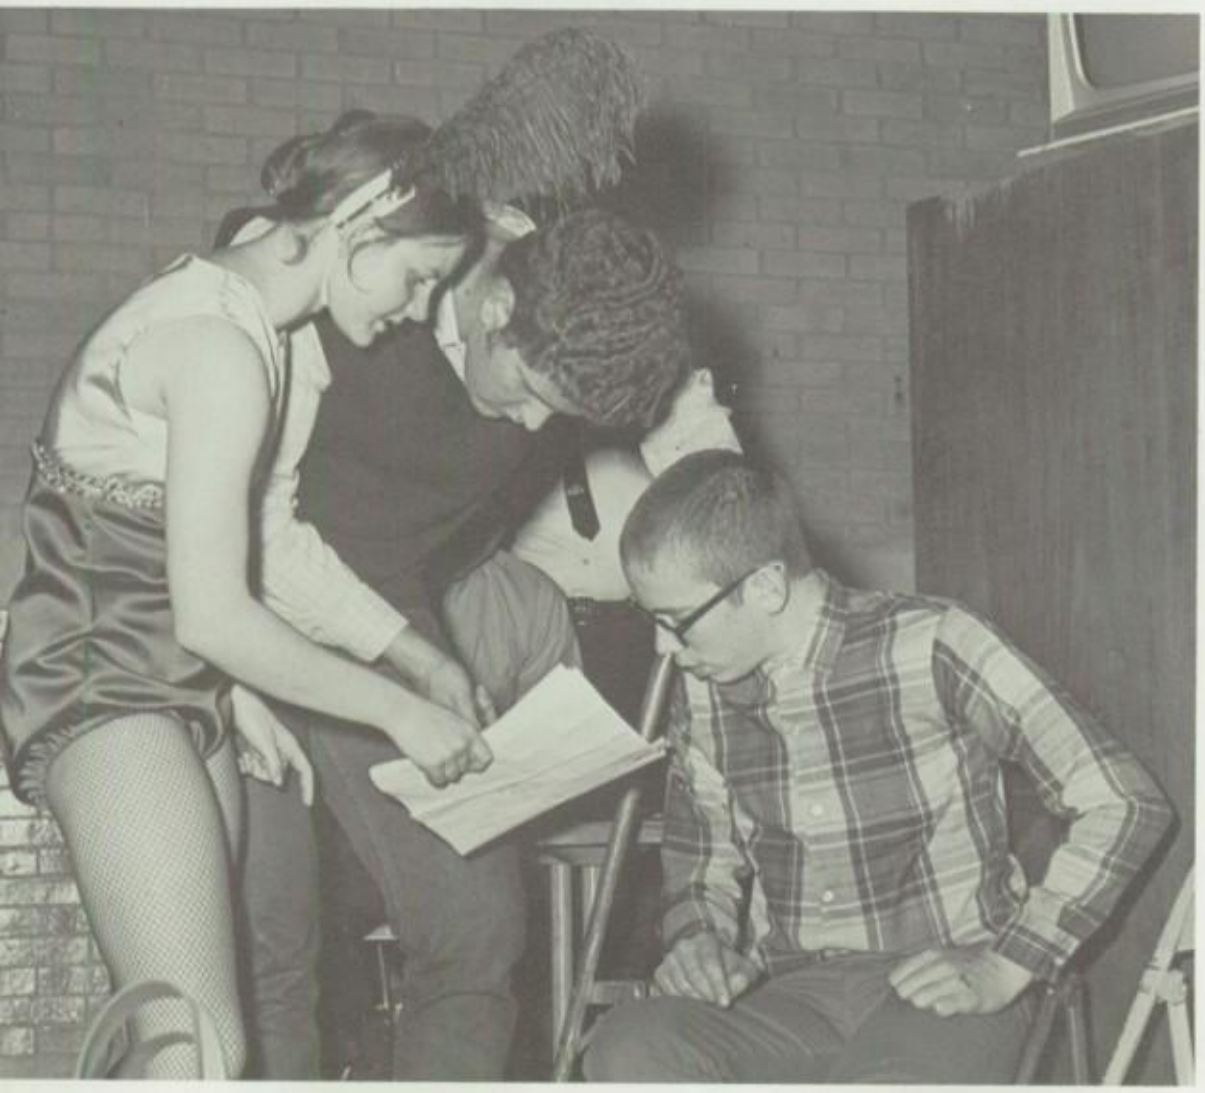
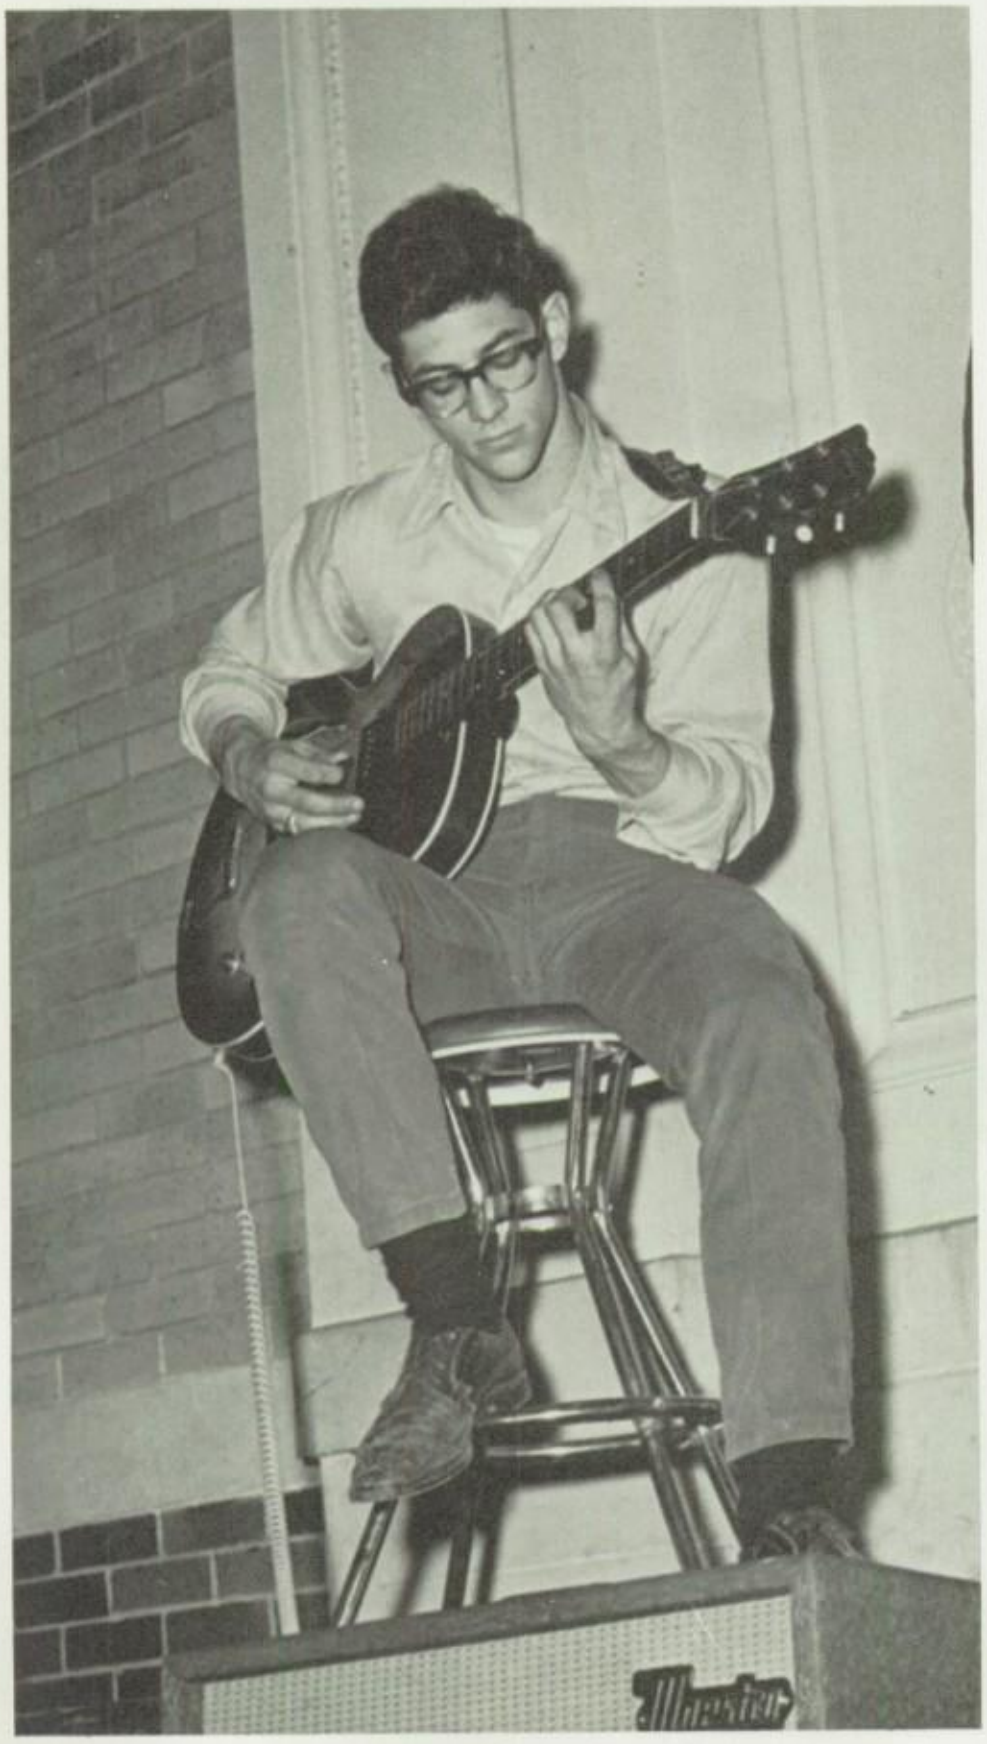
Actors on stage bring all the characters of the world, and of every age together. Young lovers and a senile aunt in Russia; a nagging wife, an overbearing mother-in-law, a spoiled child, and a hen-pecked husband in the United States; and two housewives, concealing a murder in Scotland, were portrayed in the three, one-acts produced by the Dramatis Personnae in Spring, 1970.

Students and faculty participate in the annual Handy Merry Go-Round, a conglomeration of talents from all grades. Giving and receiving stage directions, locating the spotlights, cuing music, and working lightboard and scripts together are just a few of the extra-curricular jobs that must be finished before curtain time.

Long hours of practice by students and teachers are important. Everyone must know exactly where to be and when to be there, if the production is to run smoothly.





The Merry-Go-Round, an annual event at Handy, presents the varied talents of students. Tap-dances, violin duets, and quick skits provide entertainment for many tastes. The Music Department supplies the melodies and the whole student body joins in on the fun.

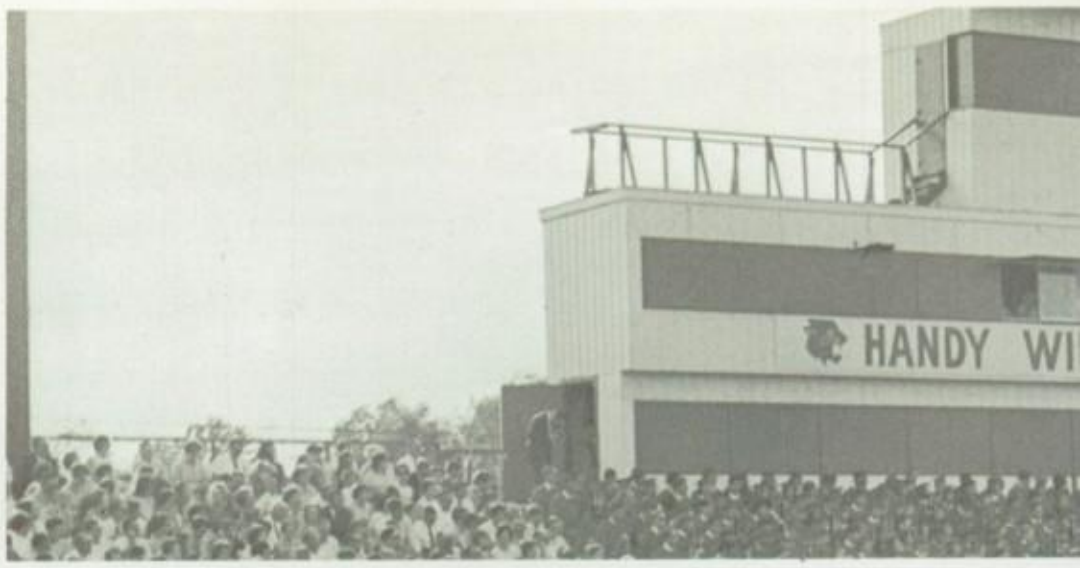
After classes come to an end, teachers begin the chore of correcting the day's papers. The office closes up until the next morning. In late afternoon both boys and girls practice for the competition they will face in their chosen sports. At night, Handy students can be found at school activities, like the Girls' Handy-Central basketball game, or studying at Sage library.

Learning takes many forms . . . tangible and intangible . . . like those of a small white ball, clubs, and a green . . . a tennis racquet, a net and six balls . . . a volleyball, a net, and a friend to show you how to use them. Learning is doing . . . helping to make the Merry-Go-Round great . . . struggling with a special solo . . . writing and acting in your own skit . . . helping backstage with lighting or sound or building props . . . knowing the show must go on, sprained ankle or not . . . that straw hats go on straight and the curtain opens promptly at eight . . . that you work and practice, and have fun doing these things, because you are a part of Handy and of the student body.

Learning is preparing . . . to graduate . . . by getting seni pictures taken on time . . . by ordering announcements . . . by passing classes and exams. It early college applications and entrance exams and college weekend visits . . . choosing, with sp cial care, a prom gown and date . . . saving, fastidiously, a corsage that can't be saved, though th image will linger . . .

Long gloves and long gowns, tux dos, feminine faces framed ringlets, dance programs and favo reflect the excitement of Seni Prom night.



Four years of high school culminate on graduation night. Caps and go are given by students and counselors, as the class of 1970 graduates.

Learning is knowing . . .

that friends never really part . . . even if they go away to college, and you remain at Handy . . . that memories last a lifetime . . . that mental growth depends on the past and the future . . . that grade school and high school are training fields for life. Learning, in the final analysis, is acknowledging that graduation is truly a commencement to a better understanding of people . . . to a wider scope of knowledge . . . to a life in the adult society, which you will form and challenge . . . a new beginning, with no completion date.

Mr. Noell holds three degrees

Mr. John C. Noell is the head administrator of T. L. Handy High School. He has held the office of principal since the fall of 1963, when he succeeded Mr. Arthur Cansfield.

Mr. Noell received a Bachelor of Arts degree in English from Eastern Michigan University in 1950. In 1952, he earned his Masters degree from the University of Michigan. Recently he acquired a Specialist degree in Education from Central Michigan University.

Before coming to Handy, Mr. Noell served as a high school principal in Onaway, Michigan, and Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Board hosts new head

Mr. Alvin Zachrich became a new administrator in the Bay City educational system this year. In his duties, he works closely with Board of Education members, from left to right; President Hugh Hanson; Vice President Robert LaRocque; Business Manager L. J. McCully; Controller Lyle Ewing; and Board Members: Second row, left to right; Cleo Carbary, Donald Nichols, Scott Newcombe, Paul Rowley, and Franklin Vanden Brooks.

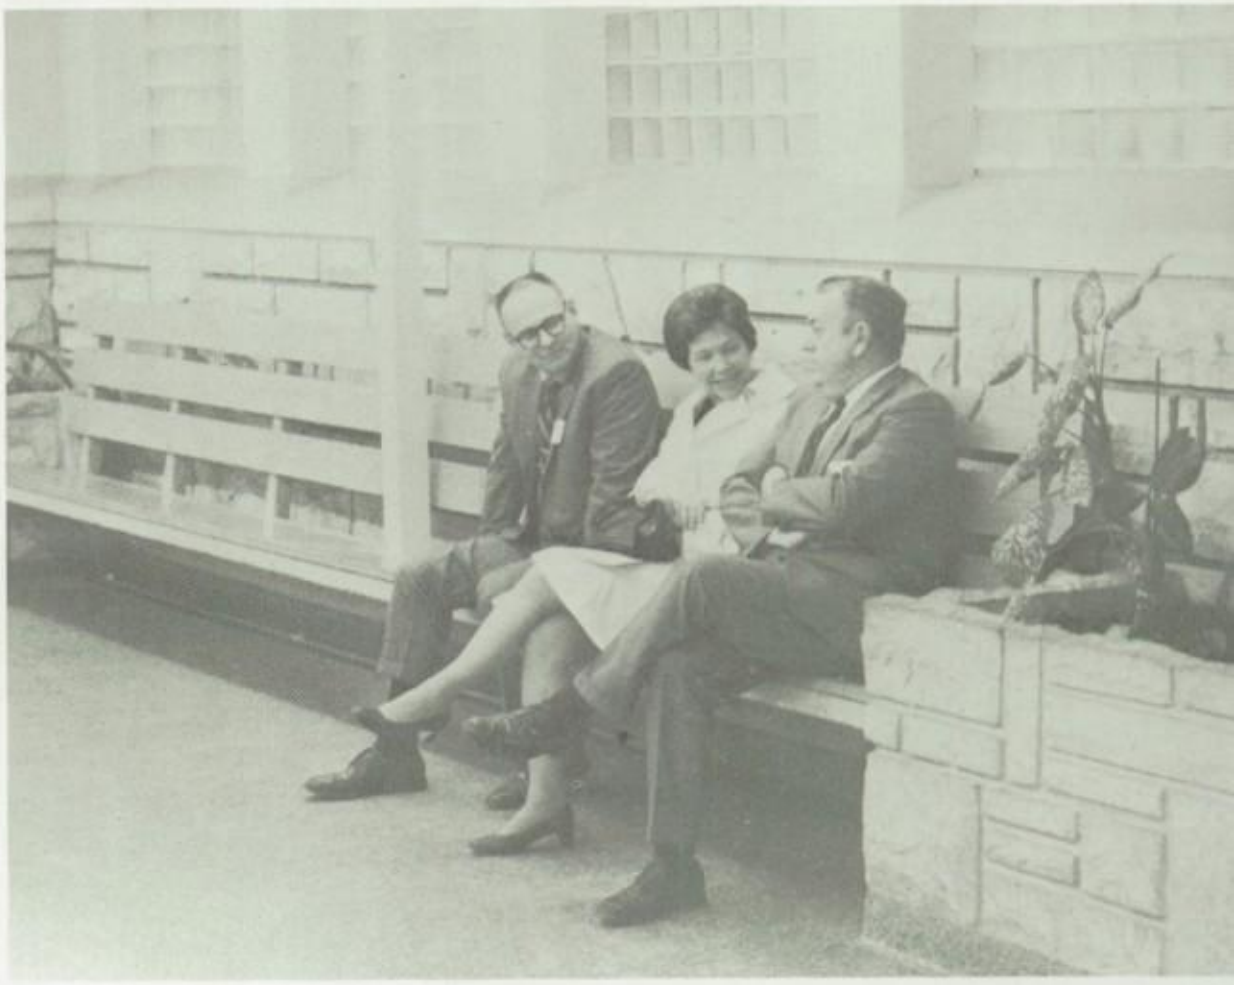
Alvin Zachrich,
Superintendent

Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Sprague share administrative duties

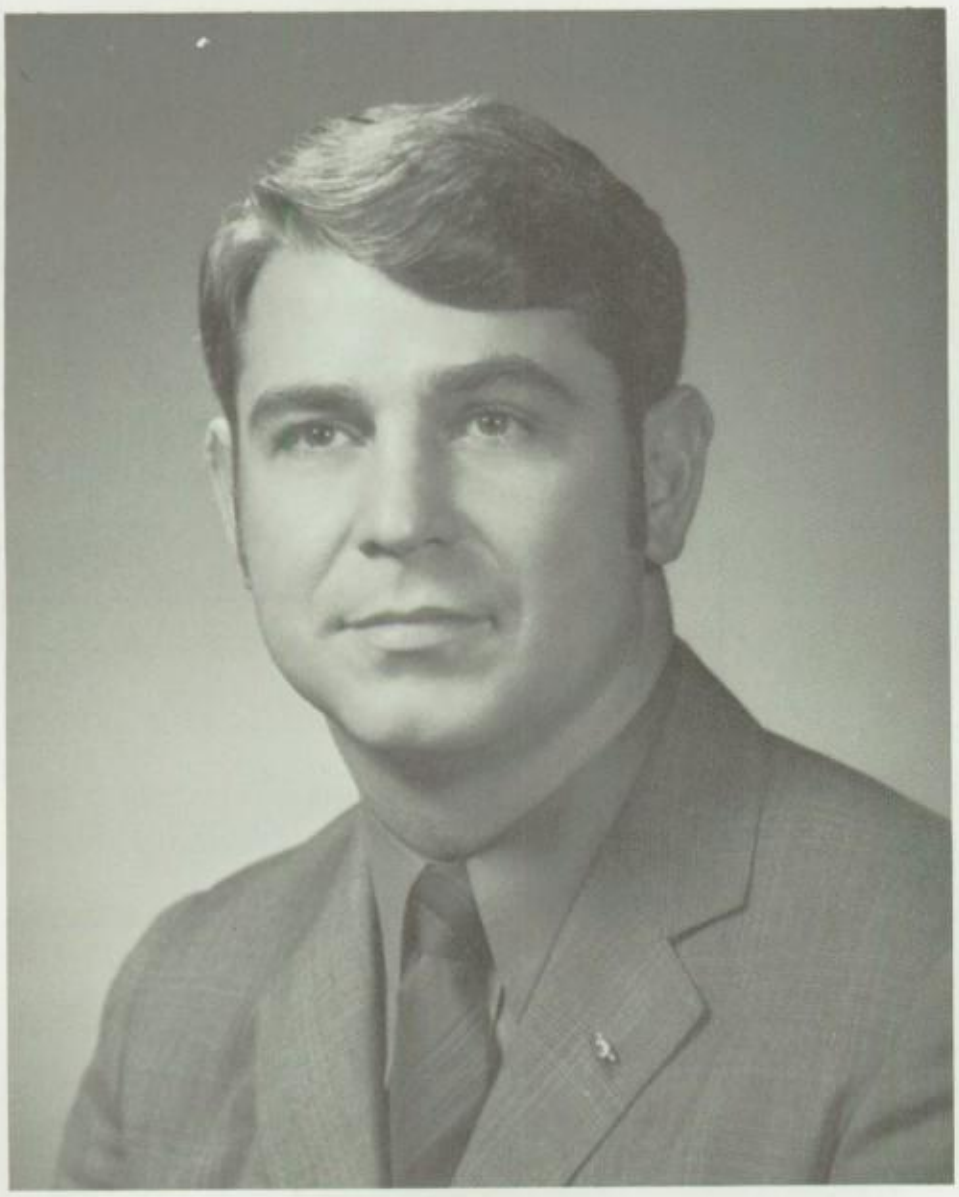
Mr. Noell shares his enormously complex job of administrating Handy High School with Mr. G. Stevenson and Mr. A. Sprague.

Mr. Stevenson is Handy's Assistant Principal. He joined the Handy faculty in 1962, became a counselor in 1965, and assumed the duties of Assistant Principal in 1966. Mr. Stevenson received his bachelors degree in 1959, and masters degree in 1965, from Michigan State University.

Mr. Sprague serves as Mr. Noell's Vice-Principal. Before joining Handy's staff, in 1957, as an English teacher, he received his bachelors and masters degrees from Central Michigan University. He became Vice-Principal in 1968, after serving for ten years as a counselor.



Mr. A. Sprague and Mr. J. Noell talk with Mrs. N. Muler, a fellow educator and Handy parent.



Mr. G. Stevenson is Handy's Assistant Principal.

Mr. A. Sprague serves as the Vice-Principal of Handy High School.

Deans sponsor Girls' League, Student Council

roubled students find Miss Haller a willing listener, and are amazed at her ability to resolve dilemmas.

Miss Haller, Dean of Girls, is also the sponsor of Girls' League, a service organization for girls from the 9th through the 12th grades.

Mr. Budge, Dean of Boys, sponsors the Student Council. The Student Council members represent the student body of Handy. Mr. Budge helps the Council in their decisions and projects.

Second semester Mr. Budge and Miss Haller go to the intermediate schools to talk to the incoming freshmen and to set up testing schedules. They help future freshmen to plan their first year at Handy and to make plans for study in future years. Both Deans help students with serious problems, concerning home and school relations. They are responsible for supervising grade counselors.

By sponsoring Student Council, Mr. Budge helps mediate student body problems.

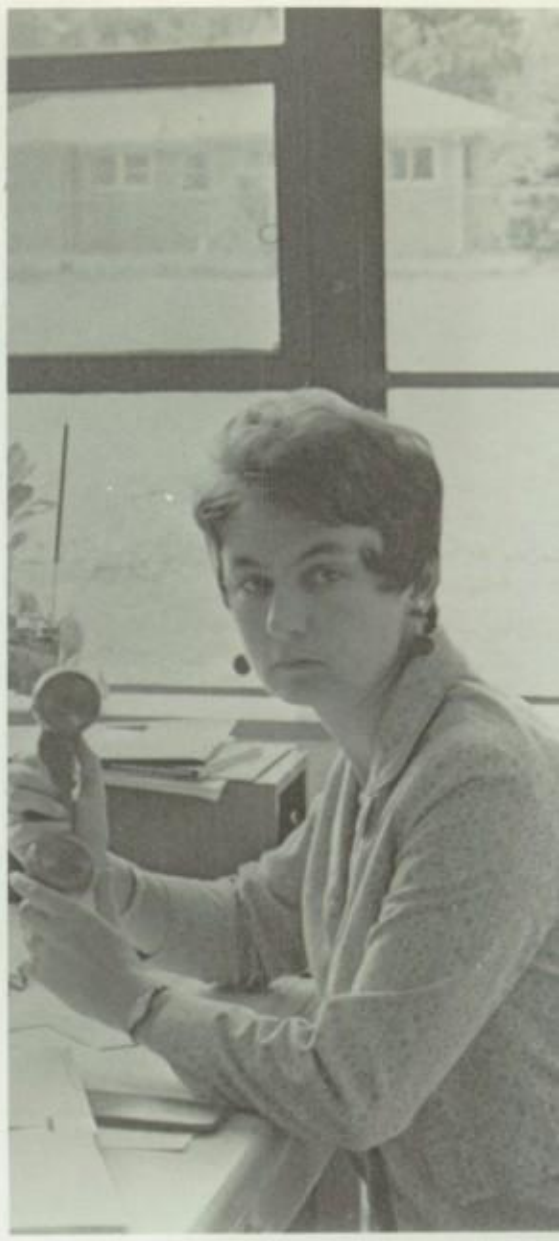
Counselors help freshmen and sophomores

The first two years of high school are the hardest. For many students, the only place of refuge is the counselling office, where Miss Sloan and Mr. Elzinga, Mrs. Bendell, and Mr. Dietze, freshman and sophomore counselors, respectively, work daily to help with scheduling problems, personal conflicts, sickness, and undecided futures.

In the early spring, each student is interviewed for program plans for the following year, and then a tentative program is laid out.

Parental conferences are held, not only in student-classroom problems, but also in student-parent-teacher relationships. From these counseling offices, among others, the interim reports are mailed to parents, and follow-up interviews and conferences are arranged. Every day, and every hour of the day, the counselors help students, and teachers, to adjust to each other and to their problems.

Mr. Elzinga inquires about a student's latest progress report.



Juggling phone calls and questions make M Sloan's day.

Mrs. Bendell examines a student's schedule for next year.

Mr. Dietze and Mark LaFramboise look over his past record, and talk about his present progress.

Junior and Senior counselors offer guidance during times of decision

Mr. J. Grant, new Junior counselor, acquaints himself with a student's academic record.

The formidable task of counselling Handy's Juniors and Seniors falls on the capable shoulders of Mr. R. Mosier, Mr. J. Grant, Mrs. G. Jewell, and Mr. O. Gavrilla.

Juniors returning to school this fall found a new personality in their counselling office. Mr. J. Grant succeeded Mrs. L. Lather, and joined Mr. R. Mosier as a Junior counselor. Mr. Mosier continued in his position as counselor, having joined the staff in 1966.

Senior counselor Mrs. G. Jewell taught English in Detroit and Pinconning schools prior to joining the Handy faculty in 1958, and the counselling staff in 1965. Her fellow Senior counselor, Mr. O. Gavrilla, joined the counselling staff in 1968, after teaching mathematics and history at MacGregor School.

Mr. O. Gavrilla, Senior counselor, discusses college entrance procedures with a student.

The Senior Counselors. Mr. O. Gavrilla and Mrs. G. Jewell.

Literature and grammar are the fundamental elements of English

English teachers: First row, left to right: Miss C. Kossaras, Mrs. S. Lukomski, Mrs. D. Curler, Mrs. D. Clayman. Second row: Mrs. A. Lind, Miss B. Mitchell, Miss P. C bons, Mrs. E. Loll, Mrs. C. Press, Mr. A. Thomas. Third Row: Mr. P. Brady, Mr. B. Livingston, Mr. H. Hebert, Mr. T. Lukomski, Mr. N. Ringle, Department Head

Though the primary purpose of English teachers is "learnin' kids" grammar and literature, they also spend time correcting papers, supporting school activities, acting as sponsors, and attending departmental meetings, where they discuss curriculum revision and other related topics. Twenty-three teachers, some of whom teach only one or two English classes per day, and teach other subjects in other areas the remainder of the time, work to stimulate students toward an interest and education in the spoken and written word.

The Fine Arts add variety and dimension to the student's day

The Fine Arts Department at Handy includes Speech, Drama, Art, and Music. Each of these fields gives the student an opportunity to expand his own personal and cultural horizons, through actual creative effort.

Art is offered all four years. The scope of material ranges from the basics of line, structure, and value to the crafts of stitchery, and mold-making.

A student may become more analytical in viewing a stage play by taking Drama.

In addition to teaching the basics of movement, diction, pantomime, vocal projection and inflection, Drama provides a solid background in technical knowledge of the theater.

Speech, a requirement for graduation, is often taken in the Junior year. Speech classes' main objective is to train and equip students to meet a variety of speech situations with confidence.

Band, Choir, Orchestra, and Chorus are offered to the student interested in improving his skill in vocal and instrumental music.

Mathematics, the square root of knowledge

Mathematics, defined as the science of order, is an essential component in the education of Handy students. A total of eight instructors teach classes in six different aspects of mathematics. The courses offered include Algebra 1, Algebra 2, General Math, Geometry, Senior Math, and Trigonometry.

Algebra students study the basic principles and fundamental operations that govern mathematics.

Geometry is taught, with the goal of developing the student's capacity for deductive reasoning.

General Math is offered to students with a limited or weak background in modern math. For the more advanced student, Senior Math offers preparation for analytical geometry and calculus.

Biology, Advanced Biology, Phys Chemistry and General Science are fered to the Handy student.

Biology teaches the interrelations between all forms of life. Chemistry dents explore the composition of mat while the Physics student studies ene and the transformation of matter. G eral Science is offered as a study of the basic concepts of science.

The Industrial Arts Department prepares the craftsmen of tomorrow

Skill, precision, and ingenuity are trademarks of the Handy Industrial Arts Department. Ten instructors comprise the capable teaching staff. Architectural Drawing, Mechanical Drawing, Wood Shop, and Machine Shop are offered to the student.

Architectural Drawing focuses on light construction in the building field. Mechanical Drawing, offered for three years, covers a wide spectrum of drafting situations, from orthographic projection to assembly drawings. Wood Shop acquaints the student with the basics of hand wood-working tools and provides understanding of various types of wood. Machine Shop students learn to use the lathe, mill, and cutter grinder with skill and confidence.

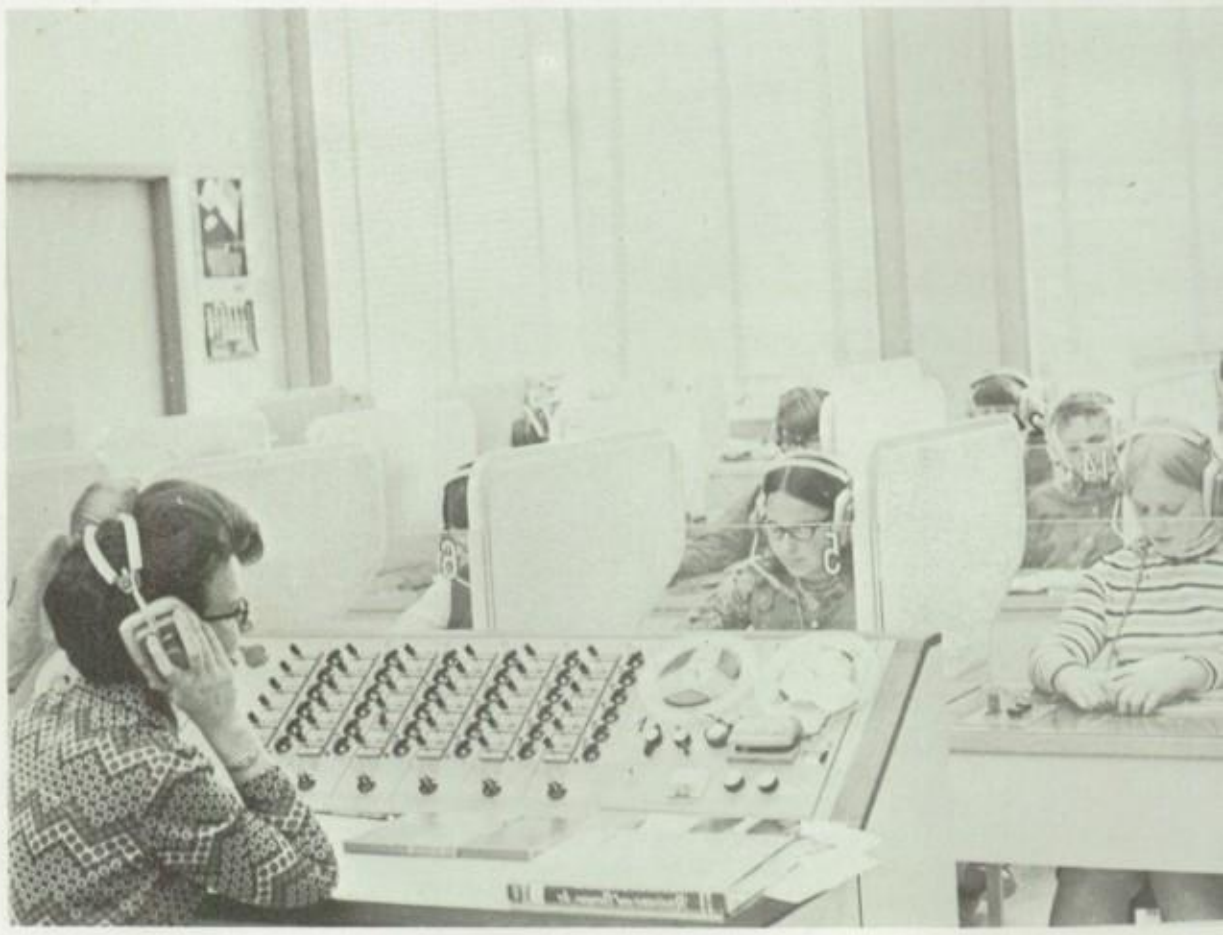
The business department has twelve teachers preparing students for work in many different jobs in the business world. Typing, shorthand, business math, and many other skills are taught to future businessmen, accountants, stenographers and secretaries. The business department also trains college bound students in skills that will make their college years easier.



The language lab is an important teaching tool.

Foreign Languages promote world understanding

Spanish, Latin, French, and German are taught in the foreign language classes. Students taking language classes learn to read, write, and speak the language. They also spend a major portion of their time in class, studying the country and its people and customs. Foreign language students often belong to one of the four respective language clubs. In these clubs, they further explore the country in which their language originated. This year, French Club painted typical French country and city scenes on the walls of the French room. Last summer, the German Club sponsored a month-long trip to Europe. Through class study and participation in language clubs, students gain insight into life in alien countries.

Physical education classes sound like a breeze, to almost anyone who is not a teacher of gym. Skill, studies in all sports, and preparation make classes, full of high school students, run smoothly.

In physical education classes, as in any others, paper work must be done, participation in clas through instruction must be carried out, and files must be kept in order. Male physical education tea ers, top right; Mr. R. Pryzbylski; bottom, Mr. C. Whip; bottom right, Mr. R. Darbee.

Seniors

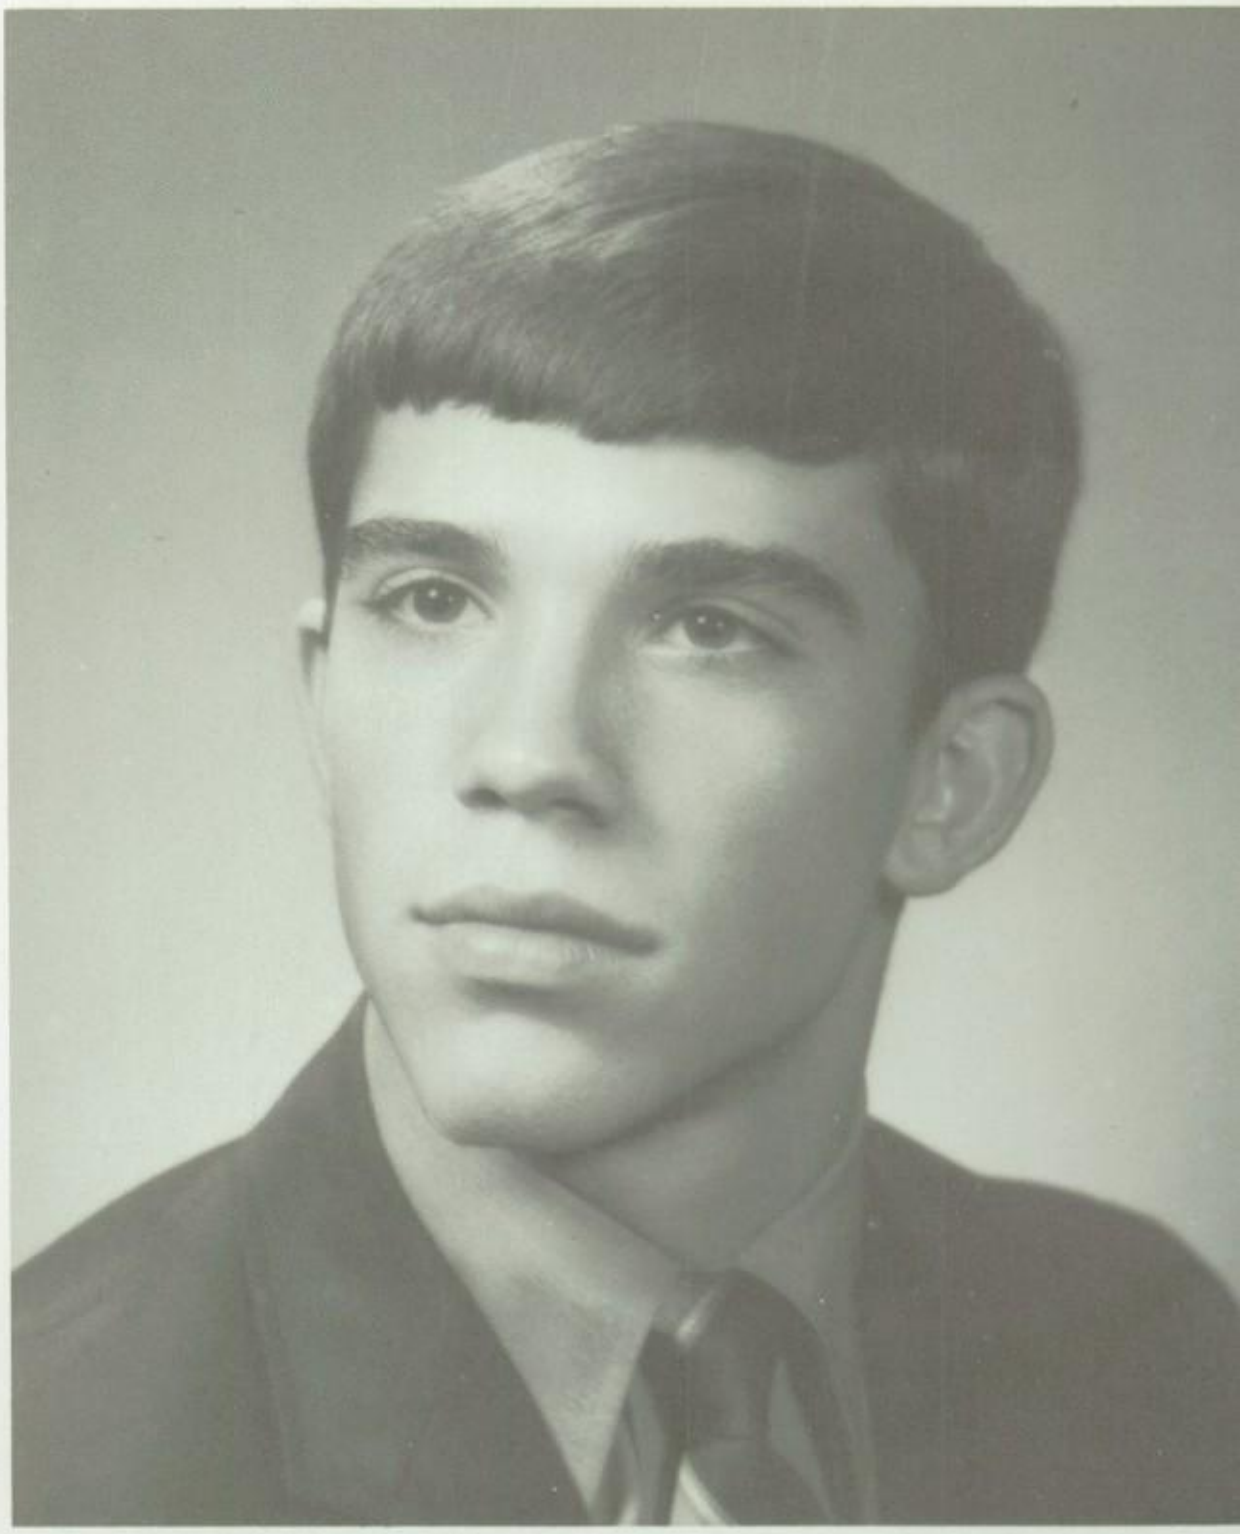
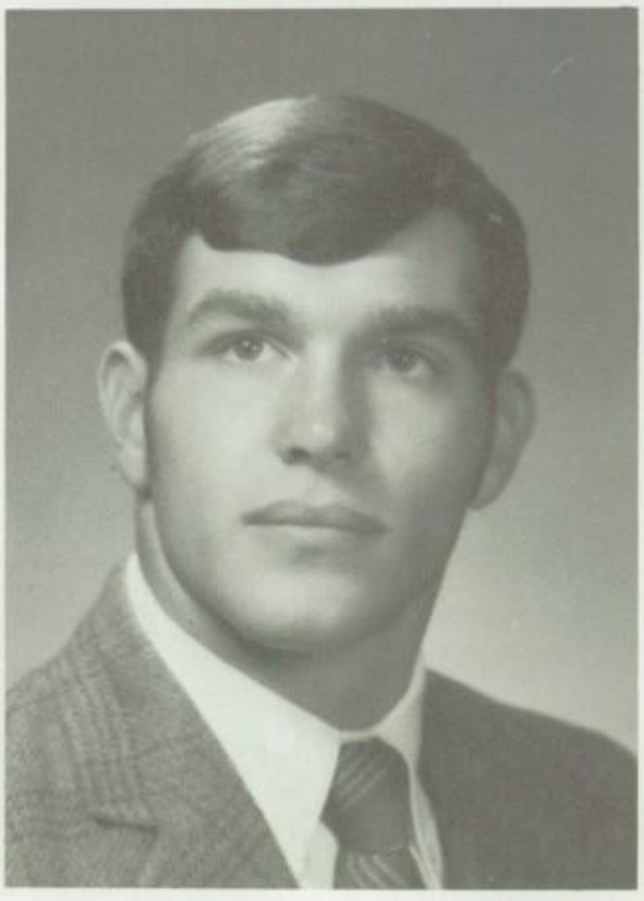
The officers of the 1971 Senior class are Fred Guenther, president (Top right); Bob Grigg, vice-president (Bottom center); Bev Johnson, secretary (Bottom right); Sandy Habowski, treasurer (Bottom left). All of this year's officers have held office in past years. Fred was president of his Freshman and Sophomore classes. Bob was president in his Junior year. Bev was secretary during her Junior year. Sandy has been class treasurer since her Sophomore year. The experience gained in past years helps them to carry out the duties of leading the graduating class successfully, for this year has brought many new responsibilities to each of them, and through their past offices they have been well-prepared.





Major activities mark grad year

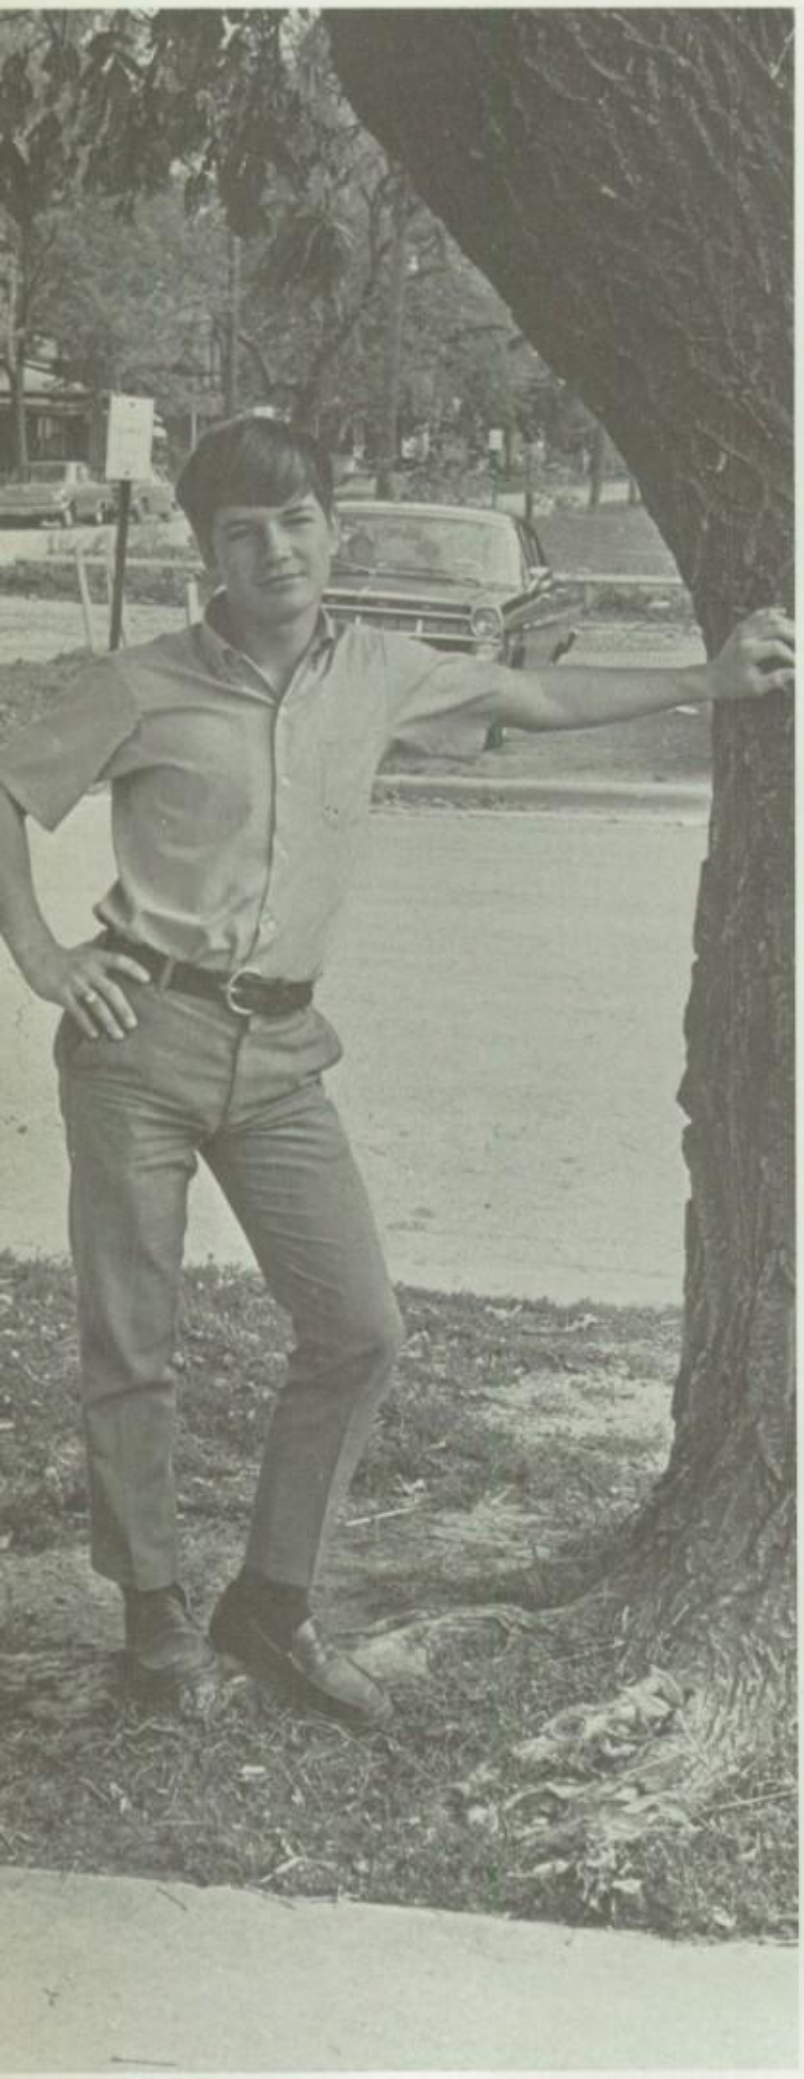
Juniors

Juniors prepare for future

The Junior year is the year when students plan their futures, looking forward to their Senior year, graduation, and college. It is a year when they begin to take responsibility. Although it is a year of hard work, Juniors show determination as leaders in both scholastic and extra-curricular activities.

President, Tony LaFramboise, (below) leads the Junior Class.



Secretary, Brenda Laracey, (below) acts as correspondent for the Class of 1972.

Vice-President, Sue Wuepper, (above) aids the pre dent. Treasurer, Cheryl Schlicker, (below) balanc

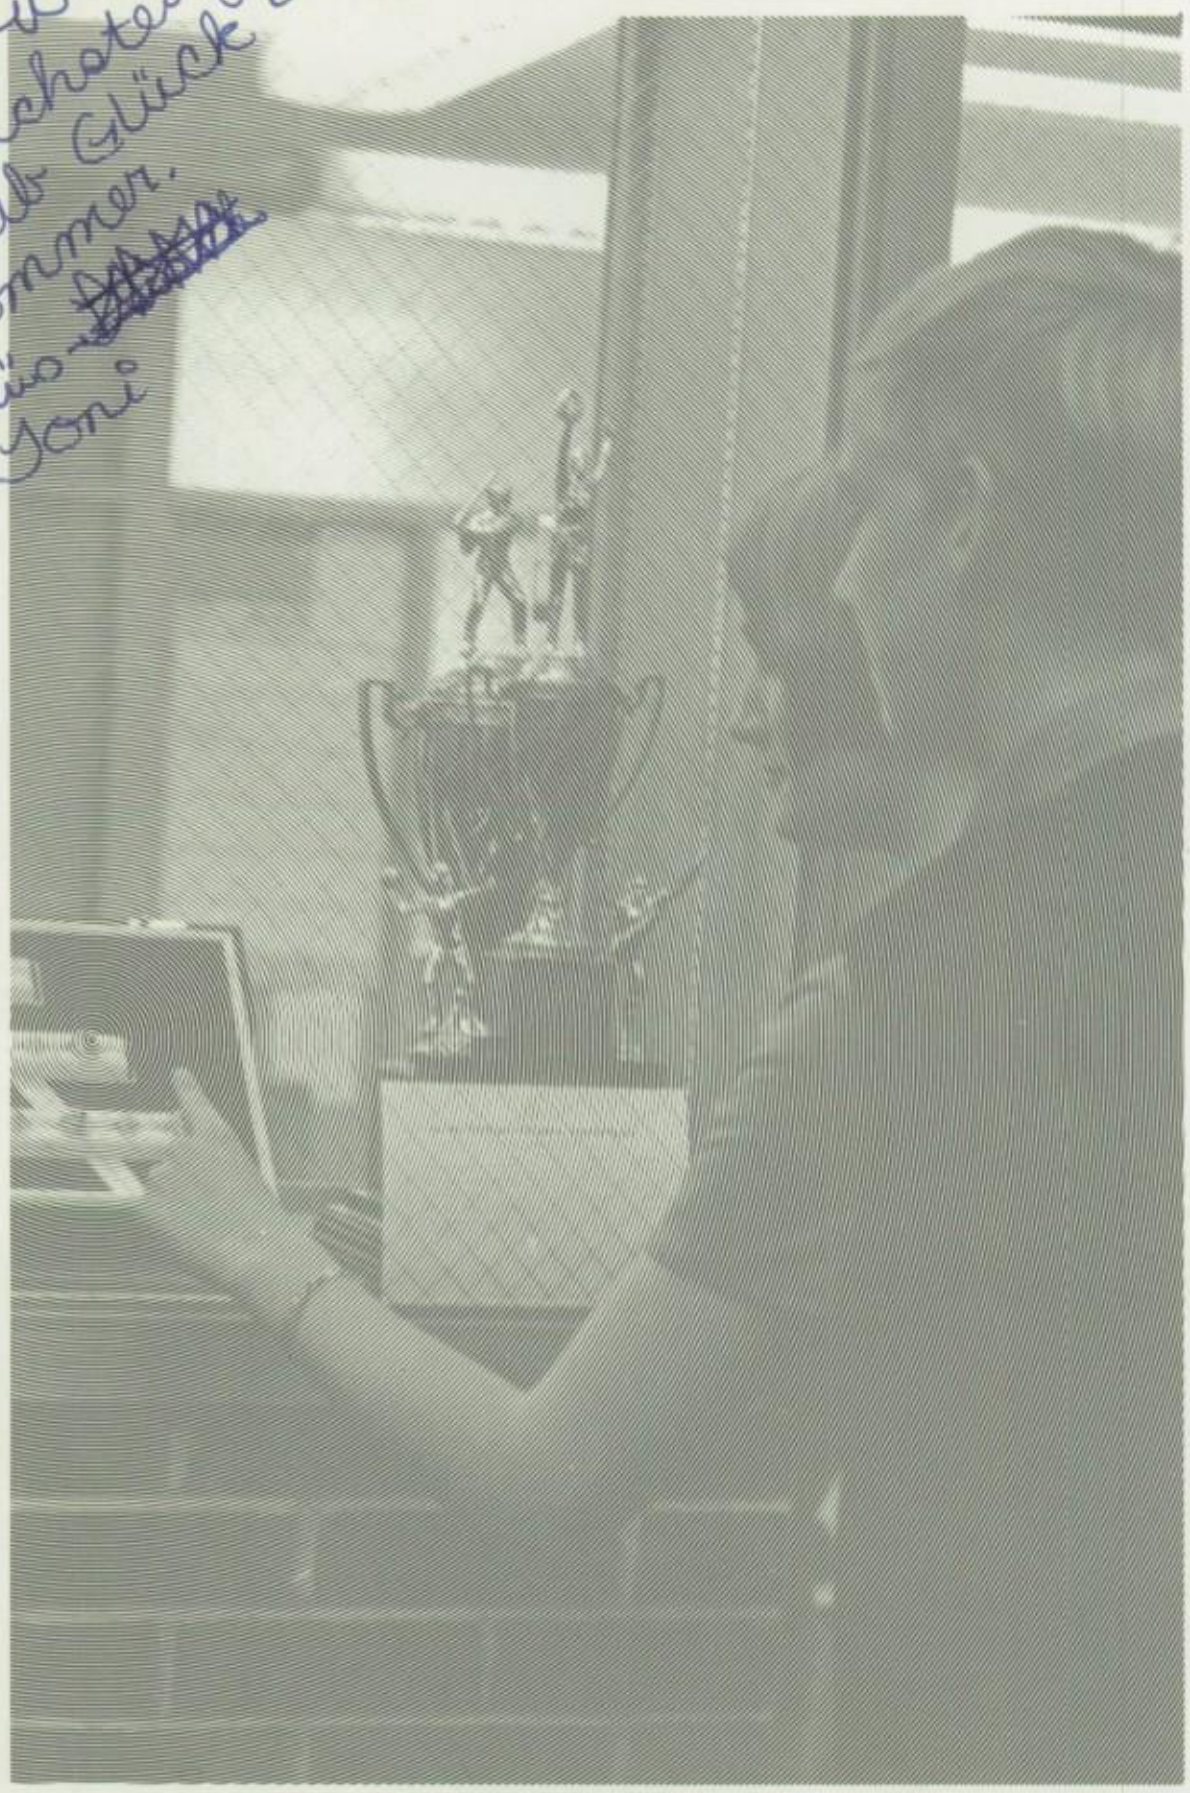
After a good lunch at the drive-ins, Juniors hurry back to school.

Jan,
Du hast mich ander Rück, mich in der Klasse zuhaben. HA! HA!
Ich weiss dass du ganz nett und freundlich, hab keine Angst! Wir haben ein Deutsch rächotes Jahr. Das ist sehr gut. Halt Glück und hab ein schönes Sommer.
Tschüs
Toni



Sophomores

Jan,
Du bist so nett
und ich habe dich sehr gern. Aber du bist ein bisschen Stinky
Ich bin nicht ernst.
Ich sehe dich dieses
Sommer. Auf wiedersehen
Joy

Sophomore year is in-between year

The sophomore year is an in-between year — a time to think; a time to remember all of the crazy things done during the freshman year.

Sophomores do not carry the responsibility of a junior or senior, but they feel the weight of their second year at Handy. They have gained a sense of ease that they didn't have as freshmen.

Sophomores accept and fulfill their obligation to sell candy, a tradition at T. L. Handy. The proceeds will cover senior year activities. This year is the traditional year to get class rings, and sophomores are first in line to place orders.

Freshman officers control activities

Though the freshman year at T. L. Handy High School may be bewildering to many students; to a few, the confusion is a challe and a stimulant to perform to the best of their abilities. Four students who accepted the challenge to become leaders in their fr man year are Class President Greg Schultz, Vice-president Cindy Burk, Secretary Andrea Anram, and Treasurer Keven Conley.

Choir, Orchestra provide harmonious melodies

The choir and orchestra, together with the band, make up the performing organizations of Handy's Music Department. Mr. C. Bernhardt is the director of the choir, which is comprised of eighty students. The choir meets daily, for the practice and training essential to vocal music.

This year marked two major changes in the operations of the Orchestra. Unlike previous years, the whole orchestra meets every day at a regular class hour. This year Mr. R. White, the director of the Band, assumed the challenging job of directing the orchestra.

Both choir and orchestra perform three times during the school year: for the Christmas program, the Winter Concert, and the Merry-Go-Round.

The Handy Band is spirited, skillful, enthusiastic and energetic

Cheerleaders promote spirit

Under the expert direction of Miss E. Kirkpatrick and Miss P. Gibbons, Handy's three cheerleading squads, made up of eighteen of Handy's most spirited girls, carry on the challenging, but rewarding, task of leading the student body into enthusiasm and excitement.

Proving their skill this past summer, Handy's Varsity squad placed second in competition held at the United States Cheerleaders Camp. In addition to the second place trophy, the squad earned six ribbons. Senior Wendy Anderson won the third place Individual Cheerleader Trophy.

Girls place second in inter-city track mee

Although often left unnoticed in the shadow of Boy's athletics, Girls' Sports has continued to grow, increasing in the number of participants. Many long spring afternoons are spent with girls on the softball field or on the track; running, drilling, building endurance, and perfecting the skills involved.

The Girls' Softball team played a total of four games. The girls were victorious in one of their two contests with Bridgeport. The team also played two games with Central, winning one of the two games. The Girls' Track team competed on a local level in an inter-city meet with Central, Garber, and West Catholic, placing second.

Sea Nymphs offers girls competition training, and entertainment

Mary McMahon and other members of Sea Nymphs spend many hours in the water preparing for stunt competition and their annual water show.

The Sea Nymphs provide an oppor
nity for all girls at Handy, who are int ested in synchronized swimming, to d velop their skills. This organization pr ents an annual water show in the spri of the year. The members practice lo

Wildcats have ter-ri-fic season

The 1970 T.L. Handy varsity football team started its season with an impressive 24-6 victory over Detroit Northwestern. Early in the season, the Wildcats fell prey to the Midland Chemics. After the 31-14 loss, the gridders fought hard and defeated all contenders for a final season record of eight wins, one loss. Team honors included the Western Valley League Championship and the City Championship. They were ranked as number three in the state poll for class A high schools. These awards were highlighted by the impressive spectacular win over cross-town rival Bay City Central, on "lucky" Friday the thirteenth. The score, 18-16.

"Brady bunch" posts 19-1 mark

The 1970 Varsity Baseball Team posted a fantastic record, with nineteen wins against only one loss. To maintain a winning record like this requires more than skill in a game. The skill of the 1970 team was complemented by the spirit, pride and team cooperation exhibited by each member. They are more than just a team; they are hard-hitting, hard-pitching, hard-working players, interested not only in their individual improvement, but also in the improvement of their teammates and the coordination of the entire team into a winning machine. The effort put forth by the 1970 baseball teams contributed to the image of all Handy sports.

Remember the things you used to save? What do you save now? We'd like to suggest you save your money. The money you make baby-sitting or make part-time can earn interest for you in a savings account. It can help you to continue your education. It can help achieve whatever goals you have set.

It's nice to remember the past all right, especially when you have a whole future ahead of you.

Jan,
TO a really cute & coool friend! Don't forget all the fun we've had in the past!
Or don't forget
my kutty kat!
Love,
Jan Grand

TO Youre
Carson - that way fan.

Jan,
Well, you old sack
of beans. How ya been.
Stay loose and never loose your personality.
Improve it but don't lose it
Joe Nameth. Just kidding ya know.
